the Watt Stopper®

Energy Code ASHRAE 90.1-1999

Do you meet the standard energy cold ASHRAE 90.1-1999?

By July 15, 2004, all states must certify that they have energy codes in place that are at least as stringent as Standard 90.1-1999 or justify why they cannot comply. Standard 90.1-1999 mandates either timed scheduling or occupancy sensors be used for buildings larger than 5,000 sq. ft., except for lighting operated 24 hours a day. Control devices can be:

- Programmable time scheduling system for time of day when spaces are unoccupied.
- An occupancy sensor that turns lights off within 30 minutes after the space is vacated.

Leff carries Leviton and WattStopper control devices that meet this standard. Contact your sales representative for more information.
